Basic Training & Beyond Day-Two

Client Relations

Marketing

Productivity & Technology

Who is your ideal client?

Why good client choice is vital

What are the characteristics of your ideal client?

Where are they & how do you talk to them?

We are licensed to solve the problems of others for a fee

LAW IS A RELATIONSHIP BUSINESS

The business decision you make:

Taking anyone & everyone who walks in the door

or

Being selective and discerning

Client Vetting

 Advance fee (when is the need for your problem-solving ability at its peak?)

The interview process & using a questionnaire

Social media & public data bases

Credit report: Experian's service for lawyers

When you need to close

Are you talking to the decision maker?

Can you solve this problem?

Are there contingencies?

Ask for the work.

Now that you have said "Yes"

Start work in their presence

Make sure they "see" you solving their problem

 Create a system of informing & educating that is personalized to each client

The challenging client

Allow for sufficient time & attention

 Document the effort; (This becomes part of the client file: LEO 333)

If you need to withdraw: Rule 1.16(b)

Real listening

How it works

Why it works

The problem we are solving has an emotional component

Client expectations

What are they?

How do we address them?

A big factor in satisfied clients who will refer new clients

Setting Boundaries

• It starts at intake & is reflected in the fee agreement

Some client have to be trained & reminded

Boundaries keep us professional

The lawyer who takes no unscheduled calls

A small client can refer a big client

Every client should feel like your most important client

Informing & educating is essential

Contact the client before the client contacts you

The New Client Checklist

- Am I competent & efficient?
- Is this an ideal client?
- Is this work in my Plan?
- Will the fee be reasonable now, during & at the end of the representation?
- Are expectations addressed?
- Can I finish the work?
- Will I need help?

Opportunities to make a good impression

- The appearance of the client file
- The office experience for the client
- The client's interaction with you
- Meeting them quickly using Zoom

Clients to avoid

The liar

Exquisitely angry client

Serial litigant who is pro se or has fired counsel

The unrealistic person

The person who ignores boundaries & directions

The person who does not value your effort

The person with the unsolvable problem

You are on thin ice when . . .

- You are working outside your expertise
- You are too busy or afraid to communicate
- Your office is chaos and client data is exposed
- Your invoices are inaccurate
- You have big receivables & sue to collect fees
- You take on new work just to cover overhead
- You represent friends & family for free

Evaluate your client's experience

Request our *Client Satisfaction Survey Form*From PMAS@dcbar.org

Use SurveyMonkey.com

More information on Client Relations is at Page 77, e-Manual

How to avoid a problem using a survey

When staff have significant client contact, survey the client both during and at the conclusion of the representation.

Encourage feedback about how the client is being handled.

Make sure the survey results come to you.

Here's what to ask

What should we keep doing?

What should we stop doing?

What did we not do that we should do?

Marketing

Applicable Rules:

7.1

7.5

Codes, regulations & other jurisdictions can also apply.

Example:

Bergman v District of Columbia

DC Court of Appeals 08-CV-859

Marketing is anything we do that changes the culture for the better.

- Seth Godin

The first step . . .

Start from what is real & true.

l act on the basis of my self-image.

Lawyers and imposter syndrome

Own who you are.

Own where you are.

Move from "I have to market,"

To
"I get to market."

Our choice . . .

-to talk about us
 or
 -to talk about the problem we solve

You cannot impact a feeling with a fact.

You can only impact a feeling with another feeling.

Experiences that involve little emotional intensity seem to do little to arouse focal attention and have a higher likelihood of being registered as "unimportant" and therefore of not being easily recalled later on. Events experienced with a moderate to high degree of emotional intensity seem to get labeled as "important" (probably by anatomic structures in the limbic region and closely aligned areas, such as the amygdala and orbitofrontal cortex, which are discussed in more detail later in the book) and are more easily remembered in the future.

Imagine your client's earliest thoughts about the problem . . .

If you had the chance to provide information at that moment . . . What would you say?

The problem the client lives with is often deeper and wider than the part you will solve.

How can you inform and educate your ideal client at each stage of their problem recognition process?

The information you would provide is content for marketing messages.

Inform . . .

Be careful not to give legal advice when marketing.

The Miranda marketing example . .

You have the right to remain silent.

VS.

Never talk to the police.

The ideal client's problem recognition process

- I think I've got a problem . . .
- Maybe it will go away . . .
- Can I solve it myself . . .
- Do I need a lawyer . . .
- Who is the right lawyer for me . . .

The old Yellow Pages ads are aimed at the last stage of the problem recognition process:

Who is the right lawyer for me?

Legal Zoom is aimed at the early stages

By Search Warrant or Subpoena, the Government Will Get Your Gmail (and the Numbers Are on the Rise)

by Kropf Moseley

By: Sara Kropf

I have a Gmail account for personal use. You likely do too. And nearly every one of my clients has one. In fact, Google owns about 43% of the email market. Gmail has about 1.8 billion users and about 306 billion emails are sent and received daily in 2020.

Who cares about Gmail this much? The federal government does.

That's because people still send a lot of interesting things via email. The government wants to use those emails to build their criminal cases, particularly in white-collar cases. We think about wiretaps as electronic surveillance since they happen in real time, but gathering email is a key part of how the government investigates potential crimes.

Productivity & the Small Firm

Profitability & growth are the result of a productive lawyer

It's a question of using the right tool for the job

It's stepping back, watching & creating workflows

2.5 hours

The average time an attorney spends on billable work per day.

2.9 hours

The average time spent each day on admin tasks.

1.2 hours

Of those 2.9 hours, the top 3 tasks are office administration (16%), invoicing (15%), and configuring technology (11%).

2 hours

33% of 6 hours/day not spent on billable work goes toward business development, indicating the importance of generating new clients.

23 minutes

How long it takes to recover from an interruption. Attorneys are interrupted ~6/day, so that's a ~2-hour loss per day.

2 out of 3 potential clients

Folks who say their "decision to hire" is most influenced by an attorney's responsiveness to their first call or email.

59 percent

People, on average, who didn't hire an attorney even after a consult.

86 percent

The average amount of attorneys' earnings that is ever collected.
