

RICHARD KELLEY

Richard Kelley manages the immigration and child advocacy practices at the DC Volunteer Lawyers Project and regularly supervises Guardians ad litem in D.C. Superior Court. In addition, he volunteers as Legal Director for Center Global, an organization focused on holistic support for LGBTQ refugees. Prior to joining DCVLP, Richard was a senior attorney at the DC Affordable Law Firm, where he represented survivors of domestic violence, at-risk children, and other victims of gender-based violence. He also has spent time working for juvenile justice reform in Maryland through the National Juvenile Defender Center. Richard regularly writes about issues impacting immigrants, family violence, children, and survivors of gender-based violence and teaches as an adjunct professor in Villanova's Interdisciplinary Immigration Studies Training for Advocates Program. He received his J.D. and LL.M in International Business and Economic Law and LL.M in Civil Justice from Georgetown University Law Center and his A.B. from Harvard University.