

JOHN F. O'CONNOR

John O'Connor is a partner in the Washington, D.C. office of Steptoe & Johnson LLP, where he regularly represents clients in complex civil litigation involving matters ranging from commercial disputes to national security and insurance coverage matters. John also leads Steptoe's participation in the District of Columbia Tenant Right to Counsel Project, in which he regularly provides pro bono representation to tenants facing eviction. John is an appointee to the D.C. Access to Justice Commission's High-Volume Courts Subcommittee, where he has focused on issues with service of process in Landlord Tenant Court and its effect on the access to courts for tenants facing eviction.