

Statement of Michael Stroud
Candidate for Steering Committee
International Law Community

Michael Stroud helps clients achieve critical objectives by developing and executing customized strategies to navigate Washington's legislative, political, and regulatory processes. His international practice focuses on government relations, tariffs and trade compliance, focused mostly on export controls and unfair trade proceedings.

Prior to joining Ice Miller, Michael worked for the International Liquid Terminals Association and Nossaman LLP. Michael worked on Capitol Hill for the House of Representatives' Committee on Homeland Security as the Deputy Chief Counsel. In that role, Michael drafted and negotiated extensive legislation impacting international trade and national security. Michael also served at the U.S. Department of Homeland Security (DHS) and worked on policies impacting international trade and travel.

Michael is a longtime DMV resident and active DC Bar member for more than 20 years. Michael brings a different perspective to the DC Bar's International Law Community and looks forward to working with all community members.
